The controversial and oft quoted comedian George Carlin once said, "There is a great wave of apathy moving across our country; problem is, nobody cares."

The truth in his statement is more prevalent in churches today than when he first stated it. I'm no social engineer, but I think our apathy is fueled by too many of us living in the past. We hang onto all the hurts and past defeats and never look forward to anything positive for the future. I think that's too bad, when we don't trust God to provide

I think it is important to remember the past and rejoice over the 'good' times and grieve a little over the tragedies. I simply think it becomes counter-productive when we choose to stay situated in the past. Hanging onto the past allows us freedom to 'not' set goals. It pushes the pause button on our dreams. It becomes the same thing as a 'pall' on a casket.

Whether we like it or not, life and the world we live in is always changing and we can either embrace change and move forward or we can dig in our toes and fight against it. What is the difference?

Well, embracing change fortifies our trust and hope in God's guidance and provision. It allows growth in our lives to expand. Fruitful things can be realized in a place where hope lives.

Digging our toes into the ground and fighting gives us a good feeling. It makes us feel that we are standing up for what we were taught is right. We boldly stand and proclaim, "We shall not forget nor will we be moved."

Entrenched in the past doesn't allow the future doors of 'good' events to swing open. Our resistance might even slam those future doors shut!

While God is the same yesterday (past), today (present), and forever (future), the scriptures in Jeremiah speak of that which is yet to come.

For I know the plans I have for you," declares the LORD, "plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and a future. Then you will call upon me and come and pray to me, and I will listen to you. You will seek me and find me when you seek me with all your heart. (Jeremiah 29:11-13, NIV)

Trust God to enrich your life with new and good things. Don't allow the broken past to swallow your hope and diminish the person God created you to be.

God has a new vision for His Church and He want's each of us to be a part of it.

Friends, it's time to put aside apathy and depression and begin to look forward and work toward a bright tomorrow through the power of the Holy Spirit and the righteous work of His children.

May the Lord bless you as you continue to follow His call.

Thanks – from the Florida United Methodist Children's Home

Dear Friends:

I hope that your Thanksgiving holiday was filled with the warmth of family and friends, as well as wonderful food and fellowship. As we approach the Christmas, many of our thoughts turn to helping others as you have done. Your generous gift is most appreciated, and will help to provide for a joyous Christmas for our children here at the Florida United Methodist Children's Home.

Justin's first Christmas with us was not very joyous. He came to the Children's Home one week before Christmas, four years ago. He had been removed from his home due to abuse, and was a repeat runaway with anger issues. He was also failing in school. But he has come to see this as his home and believes it is the best possible place for him. His grades are now all A's and B's, and he no longer runs away. Through our therapeutic program, he has resolved the anger issues, and he has even earned his learner's permit from the DMV. When I asked him recently what he was most proud of, he replied, "I've matured a lot. Now I get to be a role model to the other kids, and help them like I've been helped."

Most of our children here at the Children's Home come from situations of abuse, abandonment, or neglect. We strive to make sure that our children are not only filled with the joys of the season, but also understand the true meaning as well – the message of Jesus Christ.

It is because of friends like you that we are able to provide the loving home longed for by our children and the extra special memories during this holiday season. And there's nothing more important to remember than the Christmas message as conveyed in Luke 2: 14, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

We are very appreciative of your congregation's recent gift of $710.00. Your generosity is making an impact in the lives of our children.

From our children and staff, we wish you a Happy New Year.

Sincerely, Elisabeth Gadd, Vice President of Development
